Name: Mary and HansLocation: San FranciscoSize: 1200 sq. ft.Years lived in: 8 months

Finding a balance between simplicity and comfort in home decor can be a struggle - too simple and it can feel stark, too comfortable and it can be treacherous. We have to applaud AT reader Mary for walking that fine line between the two styles and coming up a winner. And more impressive yet, the couple have maintained a calm, serene vibe throughout the home while welcoming a new baby in process. Well done.

Artwork:

- Painting above the fireplace is by Ross Sheehan
- Drawing of man's face was done by me and is a copy of a drawing shown in an instructional manual published in 1935 - "The Human Figure: Life Drawing for Artists"
- Paintings in the dining room above credenza are by Jonah Burlingame
- Window photograph was taken by Tom Way
- "Keep Calm" poster was purchased from Victoria
- Flock Silkscreen Print - Good Shape Design

Thanks, Mary and Hans!
